Tragic Dream Came True.
To dream of being mangled by a locomotive and to have that dream come true shortly after he had related it to his companions was the experience of Wilmer Johnson, of Phoenixville, Pa. While off his engine it began to move, and the enactment of the dream came true, as he jumped for the running board, but missed it and fell under the wheels.

DOGS CANNOT RESIST ARMY

Many a Respectable Country Canine Has Left Home of East to Join the Soldiers.

Any one who has his eyes about him and who visits Camp J. A. T. Hull will notice nearly as many dogs as men in the big military reserve. There is not a company or troop but what has a dog attached to it, and not a few companies and troops have two and three dogs, says the Des Moines Register and Leader.

A dog led the charge across the imaginary river, a dog led the review of the troops which should properly have been headed by General Smith and a dog stood by the general when the troops passed him and dipped their colors as they passed.

"Where did we get him?" said a trooper, referring to a dog which looked like all the rest of the dogs and which had just succeeded in capturing a horse that had thrown his rider and successfully evaded all attempts by men to capture him. "Where did we get him?" Lord, sir, we just picked him up. It's easier for a boy to resist a circus than it is for a dog to resist the army. Many a respectable country dog has left his life of ease to join the army. We like 'em and we give 'em a good home, and they just stick. No disrespect, sir, but our troop could get along better without its commander than it could without the troop dog.

"And it's true," said Lieutenant Colonel Daniel McCarthy, "a military camp without dogs is like a home without children."

OF COURSE NOT.

PROSPERITY IN STAGE.

Strange things are happening in Skye. This time it is not a crofters' revolt, but an industrial boom. What with the discovery of iron ore in Raasay and a seemingly inexhaustible supply of fine marble among the hills near Broadford, the island looks as if it were on the threshold of prosperous times. A few days ago the last of the extensive plant in connection with the marble quarries at Bradford was laid at a cost roughly estimated at 40,000 pounds. The quarries are located in the heart of the Skye mountains, and near the base of the famous Ben-na-Caillich, upon whose herbleak peak there is a lone grave, in which there has rested for twenty centuries the ashes of a Norwegian princess. The first railway in the island has been constructed by the Marble company.—London Mail.

CONTINENTAL ETIQUETTE.

The wives of French cabinet ministers share to some extent their husbands' dignities, the deference due to them being expounded in the Protocol. Should a minister's wife enter a drawing room where any deputies or senators' wives are present these are supposed to rise and remain standing until the new arrival is seated. Ministers' wives have to show a like homage to the wife of the prime minister. And Mme. Caillaux herself is supposed to rise in honor of the wife of the president of the chamber of deputies, for with her, according to the Protocol, "c'est la Représentation Nationale qui entre, le suffrage universel la France."

HER STAND.

Mrs. Henpeck—Look at me! I don't want to handle a vote.
Mr. Henpeck (sadly)—No; you would rather manhandle a voter.

IN THE DOG DAYS.

"I wonder why that girl is so popular. She is a perfect iceberg."
"That's why her society is so refreshing."
